

Existing Employee Sales Growth Program

Advanced client communication, objection handling, cross-product thinking, and reflective sales growth

2.5-hour facilitated workshop

For 1-3 year sales employees

Why This Program Exists

Move from uneven sales habits to a shared company standard.

Current challenge

Existing sales employees already know the basics, but sales maturity varies across product teams. Some rely on team-specific habits, product pitching, or personal style.

The program standardizes the behaviors that improve client trust and sales quality.

Business goal

Reduce capability differences and strengthen company-level sales standards without replacing product-line expertise.

Focus on practical behaviors: discovery, objection handling, cross-product judgment, and reflection.

Learner value

Training only earns attention if it helps employees sell better, communicate more responsibly, and grow inside the company.

Every section produces a usable tool or workplace action.

Learning Objectives

By the end of this workshop, learners will be able to...

1 Analyze client conversations using a sales maturity lens

2 Use stronger discovery questions to clarify client goals and barriers

3 Handle objections with compliant, client-centered responses

4 Identify when cross-product thinking or referral is appropriate

5 Review a sales case and extract reusable learning

6 Draft a 30-day personal sales growth plan

From Basic Execution to Sales Maturity

The shift is from product pitching to client-centered sales judgment.

Follows process
but may pitch early

Basic Execution

STRATEGIC CONVERSATIONS.
STRONGER RELATIONSHIPS. BETTER OUTCOMES.

Adapts conversation
to client needs

Skilled Application

Connects product,
risk, timing, and trust

Strategic Client Advisor

EUROPEAN MARKETS

Market Overview

Key Indices

EURO STOXX 50	4,952.42	+0.62%
DAX 40	18,021.45	+0.41%
CAC 40	7,980.71	+0.28%
FTSE 100	8,215.73	-0.15%
IBEX 35	11,128.30	+0.35%

Sector Performance

Market News

- Corporate
- Energy

Sales Maturity Model

Three behavior levels for existing sales employees.

Level	Behavior Pattern	Example
Basic Execution	Follows process, but often pitches too early	Explains product features before learning client concerns
Skilled Application	Adapts conversation to client needs	Asks discovery questions and explains product logic clearly
Strategic Client Advisor	Builds trust and connects product, risk, and timing	Helps client clarify goals and choose a responsible next step

The G.R.O.W. Sales Conversation Cycle

A simple structure for higher-quality client conversations.

Deepen Client Discovery

Stalled sales conversations often begin with weak discovery.

Client Goal

What are you trying to achieve or avoid?

Market View

Which European market factors are you watching?

Risk Comfort

What type of downside would be uncomfortable?

Decision Process

What do you need before choosing a next step?

Better discovery reduces pressure and improves product fit.

Activity: Rewrite the Question

Turn shallow questions into discovery questions.

Weak question

Stronger discovery question

Are you interested?

What are you hoping this exposure would help you achieve?

Can you accept risk?

What type of volatility or downside would make you uncomfortable?

Can you decide today?

What would you need to understand before deciding on a next step?

Pair task: rewrite one weak question from your own sales conversations.

Objection Handling: A.C.T.

Respond without arguing, dismissing, or overpromising.

Acknowledge

Show the concern is heard

Clarify

Understand the real barrier

Transition

Move to a responsible next step

Clarifying the objection often reveals whether the issue is risk, timing, trust, or understanding.

Client objection

“This product sounds interesting, but I am worried the risk may be too high right now.”

Task: write a response that acknowledges, clarifies, and transitions responsibly.

Response structure

Acknowledge: “That is a reasonable concern...”

Clarify: “When you say risk feels high...”

Transition: “Let us review fit and risk before deciding...”

Practice in pairs, then compare what changed.

Cross-Product Thinking

The goal is better client fit, not more product pushing.

Decision prompt

- Continue current product discussion
- Ask more discovery questions
- Refer to another product-line specialist
- Pause if suitability or risk is unclear

Cross-product awareness helps employees route the conversation responsibly when client signals point elsewhere.

Scenario: What Should Happen Next?

Choose a responsible next step based on client signals.

Signal	Possible Path	Responsible Action
Client wants broad European exposure	European index products	Ask about market view and risk comfort
Client follows EUR/USD closely	FX products	Clarify currency exposure reason
Client asks about stability or yield	Fixed income	Refer if technical detail exceeds expertise
Client worries about uncertainty	Precious metals logic	Avoid guarantees; discuss opportunity and risk

Activity: Select one row and explain why your next step protects both client trust and sales quality.

Sales Case Review Lab

Turn one sales conversation into reusable learning.

Case brief

A client conversation stalled after a strong product explanation. The client said they would “think about it,” but no next step was confirmed.

Question: where did the conversation really get stuck?

Review lens

Context

Client signal

Sales response

Outcome

Lesson

Next action

Case Review Template

Use the same structure for peer learning and manager review.

Step	Prompt
Context	What was the client situation?
Client Signal	What did the client say or imply?
Sales Response	How did we respond?
Outcome	What happened next?
Lesson	What pattern can we learn from?
Next Action	What should we do differently next time?

Case review is not about blame. It is about pattern recognition.

From Case to Reusable Learning

Strong teams turn experience into shared knowledge.

This connects the course to EuroBridge's broader knowledge asset system.

30-Day Sales Growth Plan

End with one specific behavior that can be coached.

Behavior to improve

Discovery / objection / follow-up / cross-product judgment

Tool I will use

G.R.O.W., A.C.T., case review, decision prompt

First application opportunity A specific client conversation or team review

Evidence of progress

Better client notes, clearer next steps, manager feedback

Pair share: What will you do differently in the next client conversation?

Success Measures

How we know the course is working.

Reaction

85% rate course as useful for real sales work

Learning

80% complete scenario worksheets with acceptable quality

Behavior

70% discuss 30-day plan with manager

Manager Observation

Client notes show clearer goals and next steps

Business Support

Better follow-up consistency and sales process quality

Key Takeaways

Experienced sales growth comes from better diagnosis, stronger communication, and reflective practice.

- Diagnose client goals before presenting products
- Respond to objections by acknowledging, clarifying, and transitioning responsibly
- Use cross-product thinking to improve client fit
- Turn each client conversation into reusable learning

Next step: apply one tool in a real client conversation within 7 days.